

Dilemmas, Dilemmas

Practical Case Studies for Company Directors

By Julie Garland McLellan

A revealing glance into a range of different boardrooms with 'interesting' issues on the agenda.

Aspiring directors and experienced board advisors share a common frustration: boards are secretive organisations and it is almost impossible to know what is really going on unless you are a member.

This book presents a revealing array of boardroom issues and allows directors to practice their judgement and compare it to the judgement of their peers.

Contributions from leading international directors, consultants and academics provide insights to extend and challenge the reader. The case studies are lively, realistic and up to date. They encourage directors to develop their own personal style and provide an authoritative and inspirational source of information about what happens once you join a board.

Examples from not-for-profit, government-sector, family and listed commercial businesses make this book a relevant guide for all directors. The international expertise in the suggested responses to the case study scenarios focuses on the principles of governance and teamwork, making the book relevant across a global array of jurisdictions and adding to the enjoyment; in a boardroom the experts need not always agree!
